An Unroll of the Dice

SOLOMON GRANOR
SPORTS TECHNOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Since time immemorial dice have been cubes and nothing more. But, today, in 2024, we can report the introduction of a truly innovative gaming technology - the unrolled dice!

Unrolled dice are printed, cut, and even stored flat. When you fold them up to roll, they snap together with magnets and opposing sides add to 7, just like any other dice.

But, when the game is done, just unroll and slide the dice back into their 6x6 case - with all three in place, you should be able to fill each row, column, and 3x2 box with the digits 1-6 without repeats.

The manufacturer, DDice, plans a full production run by the end of the year; so, be sure to preorder a set. With dice like these you won't need more than a little blind luck to beat the odds!
